

Volunteer with Ulster County Resource Recovery Agency

Our Volunteers become an extension of the Ulster County Resource Recovery Agency's Recycling Outreach Team and support the outreach, education, and community engagement services offered by UCRRA in a number of ways. Through volunteering, they help our community to reduce the amount of municipal solid waste requiring landfill disposal by helping to promote recycling, composting, and other conservation techniques and low-waste lifestyle choices.

Any Ulster County resident (18 years or older) can become a UCRRA Volunteer! UCRRA provides a variety of volunteer tracks that offer different levels of training and free professional development, including a Master Composter-Master Recycler certification course. UCRRA also offers a fast-track option for volunteering. There are many perks to volunteering! Volunteers also gain professional leadership experience and join a community of their neighbors who are united by their desire to build a more sustainable community.

Interested persons should review both the Volunteer Descriptions and the Training Program Details. Then, complete the enclosed application and indicate if you'd like to be considered for the "fast track" or if you'd like to work towards the Certification.
